

Buying Stock Exchanges

Owning a national exchange gives investors exposure to whatever is profitable in that nation.

GLOBAL DEMUTUALIZATION

Rather than own stock indices, it has been far more profitable to own the exchanges on which the index stocks trade. Around the world, exchanges are demutualizing, becoming publicly owned, consolidating, and forming international and regional power blocks. Significant gains are being realized as a result of these steps.

EARLY-STAGE INVESTING:

Significant profit potential exists in the development of the exchange industry. Member-owned exchanges are transforming themselves into for-profit entities. Investing in securities exchanges pre-IPO is a unique endeavour, often with highly positive results.

MEMBERS-ONLY ACCESS

With experience in New York, Vancouver, London, Toronto, Chicago and Mumbai, our team has the expertise to invest, on behalf of our clients, in exchanges that are either “members-only” or otherwise hard for the general public to access.

WORLDWIDE OPPORTUNITY

There remain significant worldwide opportunities to participate in the demutualization / public listing process. Many of these exchanges exist in the fastest-growing parts of the world, including Asia and some of the best economies in Europe.